

Job queen bones Nine

HOW to get that advertising spot!

Employment pusher and wannabe Tatts member Sarina Russo has landed herself some prime air time.

Her How To Get That Job advertorial segments – they're like the ultimate infomercial – will now air during Oprah on Channel 10.

Everyone who's ever chucked a sickie over the past two decades would have seen the segments during Nine's morning programming.

It's Sarina and one of her graduates or some vote chasing pollie chatting about her empire and how to get into the workforce.

Word from Sarina's camp is that Channel 10 was keen to dangle the Oprah carrot to get the job queen's dollars. And it was an offer too good to refuse, ending her 20-year association with Nine.

